The Morrisseau Family and Goyce Kakegamic.

The membership of the Morrisseau Family Foundation is natural and dictated by blood. The seven children of Norval Morrisseau and Harriet Kakegamic comprise the membership.

Check the records. They were there in the beginning and they were there in the end. Their Anishnabe Heritage is basic to an understanding of Morrisseau's legacy. Unlike many children, they suffered the joy and pain of having a genius for a father, and, as with many who chose the path less travelled the family paid in his fragmented presence. Yet they always came back. They remained family. They grew in intense awareness of their fathers life as a shaman and artist.

The Morrisseau Children honour with respect and with unconditional love the man who was their father, Norval Morrisseau.
